ACS Announces $130 Million Contract with State of Alaska

DALLAS, TEXAS: October 7, 2007 -- Affiliated Computer Services, Inc. (NYSE: ACS) today announced a new contract with the Alaska Department of Health and Social Services to design, develop, implement, and operate a new Medicaid Management Information System (MMIS). The contract has a length of up to 10 years and a total value of $130 million, if three one-year options are exercised.

The contract also calls for ACS to provide a full range of fiscal agent services, including claims processing, operations call center support, decision support and healthcare analytics, pharmacy support, and other operational support.

"The State of Alaska is extremely pleased with this alliance with ACS as our new Medicaid Management Information System contractor. We believe this system will greatly enhance our ability to efficiently provide quality healthcare to our State's Medicaid recipients," said Bill Streur, deputy commissioner of the Alaska Department of Health and Social Services.

ACS is replacing a computer system that has had to process an escalating number of Medicaid claims for the state on technology that has become obsolete. The current MMIS system began operating in 1987. Since then, the number of Alaskans enrolled in Medicaid has more than tripled, increasing from almost 41,600 in 1987 to about 132,000 in 2006. Much of the claims processing technology, however, remains the same as it was 20 years ago.

"ACS brings significant knowledge of Medicaid programs across the country, and with this award we are delighted to be able to add Alaska to the list of states we serve," said Christopher T. Deelsnyder, ACS senior vice president and managing director, Government Healthcare Solutions. "By incorporating our advanced technology and operational best practices, we will assist Alaska with their healthcare program and improve operational efficiency and responsiveness for the providers, recipients, and other stakeholders."

The new MMIS will simplify electronic billing and payment for doctors. Every year, the system pays more than $1 billion to providers who bill medical assistance programs such as Medicaid, the government assistance program for families with low incomes and people with disabilities.

ACS will be providing Alaska with its innovative Health Enterprise(TM) solution, the most sophisticated Medicaid system in the healthcare market today. This system is currently being developed for use by the states of New Hampshire and North Dakota. Its web-based suite of technologies includes solutions for administering the Medicaid enterprise. At the core of Health Enterprise is a set of applications and data analytics used to support administration of the Medicaid enterprise, such as member and provider management, waivers, managed care, disease management, pharmacy programs, eligibility, claims processing, and third-party liability.

ACS is partnering with Sierra Systems Group, Inc., a healthcare industry leader in delivering world class business consulting, technology and application change management solutions.
